NUTRITION AND TEETH

Cavities in our teeth is the most widespread of all the chronic diseases in America. People don't seem to think of dental health in the way that they should. Almost 100% of our population is affected. Come to think of it, our dentists represent the largest group of doctors exclusively trained to treat a single health problem. But our record in controlling dental caries should be much better. The professional help is available but people don't take sufficient advantage of it. Where there is a problem, there is a "Blue Cross" kind of coverage. But above all, people apparently are not sufficiently motivated to see their dentist. I am convinced that regular trips to your dentist save money—and are cheaper in the long run. So I urge you to see your dentist regularly.

Preventive Care

But let's talk about the kind of care that can prevent or minimize dental problems. Nutrition certainly isn't a be-all, end-all with regard to dental health. But we believe that good nutrition has made a contribution to dental health, whereas bad nutrition certainly can cause dental problems. Let's take infants as an example. The newborn child's mouth contains the beginning of 32 teeth. Since the unborn child depends upon its mother for nourishment, this means a pregnant woman's diet must be adequate in calcium, phosphorus and vitamin D if the child's dental and other bone development are to be sufficient.

BILL DICKINSON MORE AID FOR INDIA?

In last week's column I briefly discussed India's opposition to U.S. plans to expand military facilities on Diego Garcia, a tiny British-owned coral atoll in the middle of the Indian Ocean, to counter the growing presence of the Soviet Navy in the area. I also made note of the fact that the U.S. recently canceled $2.2 billion of the debt India owes the U.S. for agricultural products sent to India back in the 50's.

As a matter of fact, since India gained her independence, the U.S. has given the nation more than $10 billion in aid, some in the form of direct grants, others in loans. Presumably this aid was to prop up the shaky Indian economy and allow her to stand on her own two feet.

It appears that despite repeated U.S. attempts to aid the country, that India is now economically worse off than ever. After slapping our face on the Diego Garcia base expansion issue, India is now back with her hand out to brazenly ask for more aid and apparently kindly, benevolent Uncle Sam is looking with favor on the request. U.S. Ambassador Daniel P. Moynihan is now working out the details.

Why is India in trouble once again? It appears that India's Prime Minister Indira Gandhi has learned the sad lesson of history—you can't mix efficient and productive farming methods with socialism.

A year ago she nationalized the grain trade. She has been using U.S. dollars to socialize India for some time. The 1974 wheat crop which is now being harvested is expected to be 30 percent below what India needs to feed her multitudes. It becomes rather obvious that while aid from socialist multitudes of Indians will starve.

On humanitarian grounds, the U.S. will more than likely bail India out again. Instead of being appreciative, India will probably slap the U.S. in the face again.

It appears to me that it's high time the U.S. reconsider its policy of pouring billions down an Indian rat-hole to subsidize socialism only to have its face slapped in return.

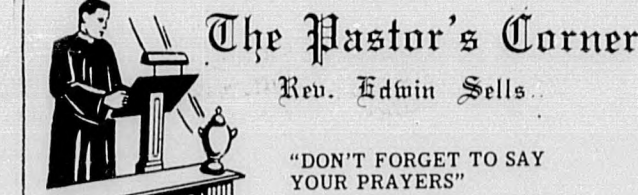

Alabama's U.S. Senator Jim Allen Reports To The People

FULL UTILIZATION OF ALABAMIANS AND ALABAMA FACILITIES COULD HELP SOLVE ENERGY SHORTAGES

Many people, including responsible officials, who should know better, are acting as if the energy crunch is a new phenomenon. But whether we like it or not, whether it is a distant news item or not, the fact of the matter is that while the oil crisis has abated somewhat, a serious and worsening energy problem remains to be solved. Although the President called almost six months ago for "Project Independence" to free the United States from dependence on foreign controlled energy sources, little has been accomplished. With the easing of petroleum supplies has come renewed fighting between those who seek to push domestic energy development and those who advocate total ecological protection which would require continued massive imports of crude and refined oil.

This fight is carrying over into the Congress where some members are engaged in what amounts to political Russian roulette with the Nation's future.

Government and industry experts agree that the United States has, in off-shore oil fields and in Western shale deposits, sufficient oil energy sources for about 20 more years with only a minimum dependence upon imported supplies. In my judgment, the research and development.

Have you ever had your parents tell you goodnight or bid you goodbye with these words, "Don't forget to say your prayers." Thank God for parents who want their children to have prayer as a necessary part of their lives. The Apostle Paul said something very similar in one of his letters.

SPARKMAN ANSWERS QUESTIONS

DEAR SENATOR SPARKMAN: We in Brent, Alabama are still trying to recover from the tornado which hit us on May 27, 1973. We are very concerned that bills coming before the Senate may not include victims of the 1973 disaster. We sympathize very much with the tornado victims in North Alabama but we also hope we may be included in any relief measures. R. D. Brent SPARKMAN: I have been trying to assist Brent and its citizens in every way I could. I am pleased to inform you that a Senate House Conference Committee agreed to and reported out a disaster relief bill which includes grants retroactive to April 20, 1973. This new program is to be administered by the State of Alabama.

DEAR SENATOR SPARKMAN: I was shocked to hear that a Member of Congress permitted the use of Congressional office space so that Jane Fonda could conduct a seminar on American Imperialism. K. E. Mobile SPARKMAN: I would like to point out that Congressmen do not have the right to assign the use of rooms for gatherings as did the Congressman in question. I thoroughly disagree with almost everything Miss Fonda does, but she does have a right under the Constitution to express her views. Nevertheless, if it were up to me, I would not have provided a room for her to express them.

DEAR SENATOR SPARKMAN: The use of poisons on public lands to exterminate predators has the end result of killing not only predators but non-predators as well through primary and secondary poisoning. This is to say that literally thousands of harmless species of birds and animals may be exterminated in the process. I urge you to vote in favor of a bill to outlaw this senseless slaughter of wildlife. M. S. Birmingham SPARKMAN: As you may know, an Executive Order has been issued to control the use of poisons on public lands, and more permanent measures are now pending in the Congress. I am opposed to any efforts to revoke the ban on the use of poisons and I support the bill to make the ban permanent.

Ethics

The powerful Alabama League of Municipalities fired a broadside at and prepared a court challenge of the constitutionality of Alabama's new State Ethics Law at its annual meeting in Mobile.

Buses

As the Birmingham-Jefferson County Transit Authority increased service on 11 routes, effected extensions of others and made major changes in some, the Montgomery Transit system hit a snag that could leave the city with no bus service at all.

Associate Public Service Commissioner Mrs. Juanita McDaniel was ready to resign her vote against a rate increase for South Central Bell after hearing protests from outraged citizens of the Hope Hill community in south Montgomery County, who have been denied service because the company didn't get an increase.

But PSC President Kenneth Hammond and Associate Commissioner C. C. "Jack" Davis declined to help to support and the stalemate continued.

Pharmacy alumni of Auburn University kicked off a $80,000 fund drive to equip the $4.8 million pharmacy building now under construction.

Prison Reform

A nationally respected prison expert said that Alabama has moved into leadership in prison reform with its 1973 master plan released by the Law Enforcement Training Agency. He said that Alabama is the first state to have a comprehensive, coordinated plan for corrections.

Tide Again

Recovering from pneumonia, Alabama Head Coach Paul "Bear" Bryant stayed home from the Tide annual spring intra-squad game Joe Namath was the losing coach. 17-14. Winner was Tuscaloosa businessman Henry Waight coffee-drinking buddy of Bryant.

Quarterback Gary Rutledge was credited by writers as the difference, but Birmingham News Sports Editor Alf Van Hoose said that Calvin Culver, sophomore fullback from East Brewton, sent enemy scouts home shaking their heads. Culver picked up 80 yards in 14 tries, and was effective both inside and out.

The Bama defense against the wishbone also won applause.

In Birmingham, U.S. Sen. Edmund Muskie of Maine predicted an overwhelming Democratic victory in the November congressional elections, but said that the very magnitude of the victory could bring a resultant head ache in 1976.

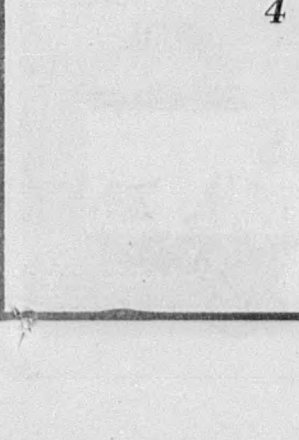

Many observers feel that McLean's frontal assault on Wallace has destroyed his political hopes for future years.

Meanwhile, the Ozark Voters League, composed of several hundred blacks, supported Gov. George C. Wallace's re-election bid. And Alabama's only black probate judge, William McKinley Branch of Greene County, asserted that Wallace's election "will be good for the state and good for the nation, too."

As a trio of black leaders came into Alabama to campaign against Wallace, State Sen. Gene McLean won the endorsement of the black political action group known as the Alabama Democratic Conference.

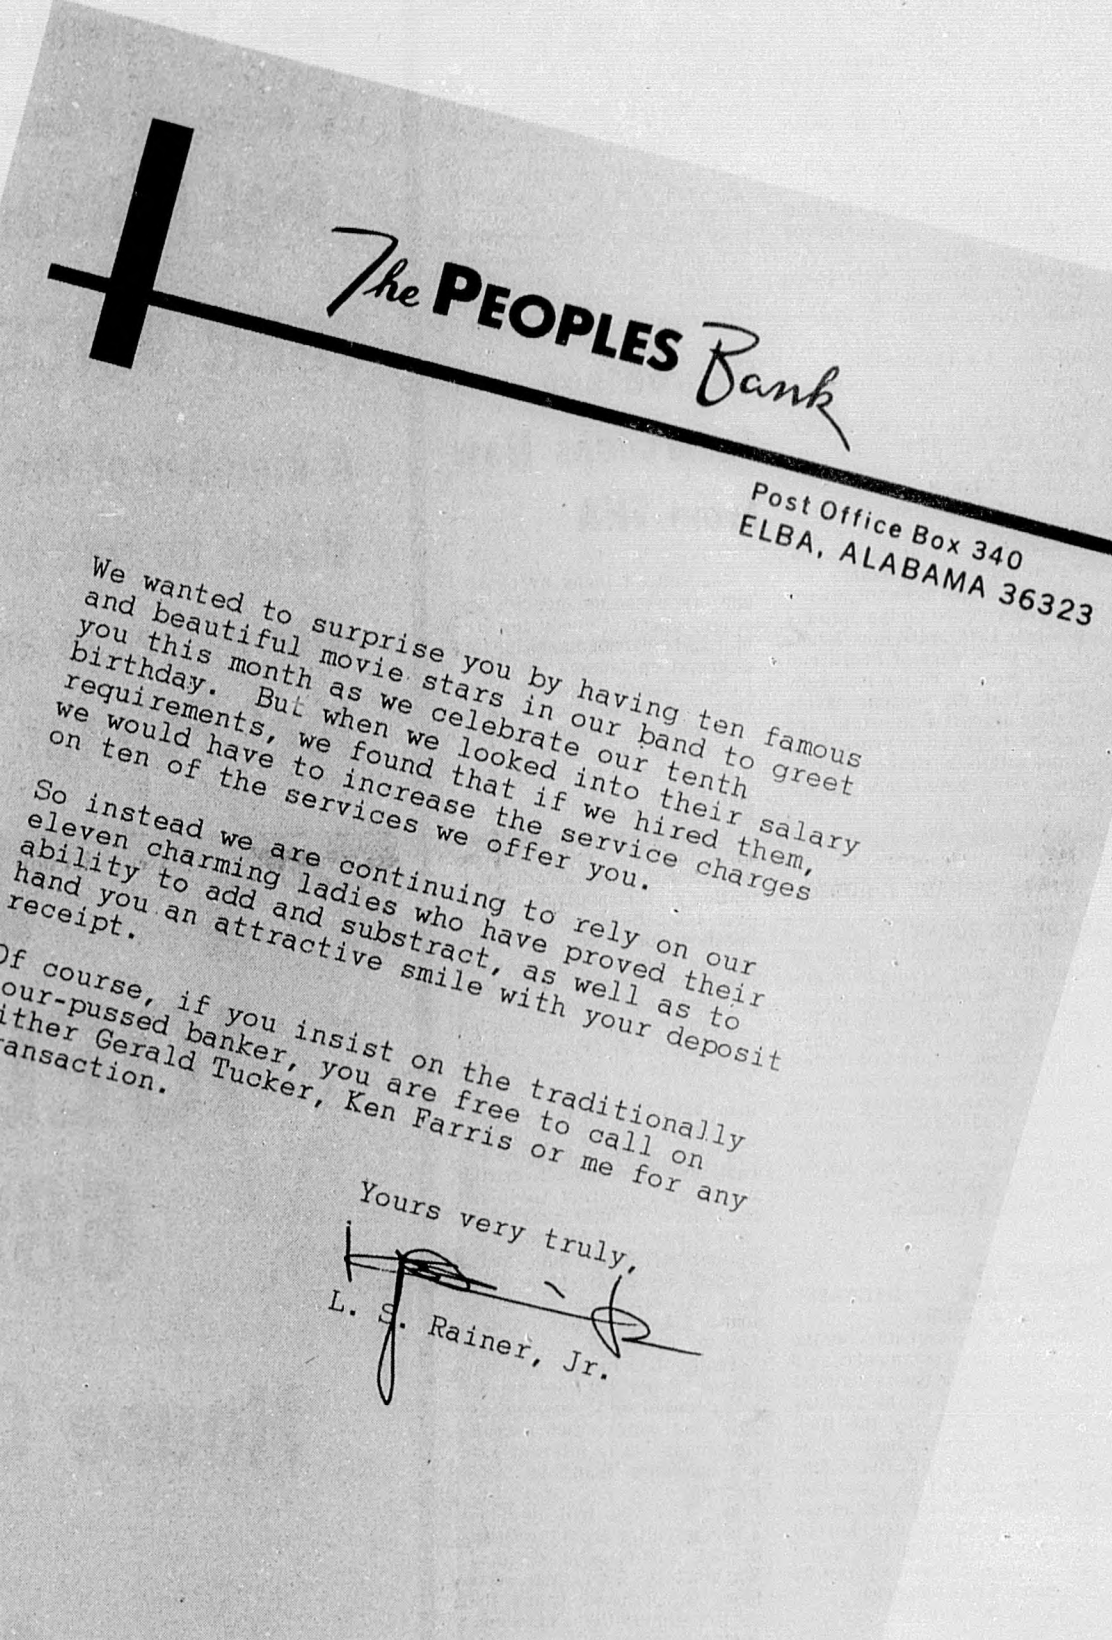

But the ADC reversed action of its screening committees and withheld support from Lt. Gov. Jere Beasley and U.S. Sen. Jim Allen, taking no position on those two races.

For the first time in two years, a polio case was reported in Alabama, affecting an 8-month-old girl in west Mobile County.

TO LOVE LIFE IS TO SEEK JUSTICE

On May 1, 1974, from one end of the country to the other, young Americans from nine to ninety will be celebrating Law Day. They will be celebrating it not as a slogan, not as a gimmick, but as a symbol of a great truth: the quest for justice is man's highest ideal.

On May 1st, despite the disillusioning headlines of the past months, an army of young citizens will stand up to be counted, to pledge their resistance to apathy and cynicism. Join them. won't you? Help say "yes" to the proposition that ours is a government of law, not license.

Make your voice heard. Let us shout to the world that no one in America—big or little—may take away the rights of others.

Let us teach ourselves anew the basic lesson of the American heritage: for a nation to lower its ideal, equal justice for all, is to forfeit its very life force.

"DON'T FORGET TO SAY YOUR PRAYERS"

Prayer without ceasing, in everything we do. Prayer is as necessary and as vital to our spiritual health as breathing is to the physical body. We never get too old for someone to remind us to pray. Jesus told his disciples in Matthew 6, "and when you pray, you shall not be as the hypocrites; for they love to stand and pray in the synagogues and in the corners of the streets, that they may be seen of men. There is a place for public prayer but, of course, it isn't to be done for show but as a corporate expression of worship. Prayer is intimate fellowship with the Father. It is not the much speaking, but the sincere speaking which reaches the throne of God. We should not pray just to tell God what we need but to open our hearts to Him for the communion of his inspiration.

Just this week, our national leaders have called us to prayer. It is sad, in one sense of the word, to have to be called to prayer--when we ought to be in a state of prayer. However, it is encouraging to know that men and women in high places of government realize that the Power of God is necessary to the peace and orderliness of our nation. Hopefully, this will not end our serious intercession for each other and our neighbors, but will be a new beginning of compassion and concern by each one of us. This is the great force that brought our nation together and the only force that can keep us together. So let me remind you, "Don't forget to say your prayers!"

Volunteer 4-H leaders in Coffee County. Left to right: Stephanie Johns, Elba, 4-H member, along with volunteer leaders, Mrs. Roland Whitham, Kinston, Mrs. Diane Smith, New Hope, Mrs. Willis Dean Parrish, Mt. Pleasant, Mr. and Mrs. B.M. Bowdoin, New Brockton, and Sophia Johns, 4-H member from Elba.

Coffee County Leaders Support 4-H

Eighty-five volunteer Coffee County leaders are driving, at their own expense, some 4,000 miles a month to help make the best better for 4-H boys and girls in the county.

These leaders also give three to five hours of their time each month to support the 4-H program in the county. Forty-five teacher-leaders are also assisting with the 4-H program.

"We're delighted to see all these people involved in developing this great resource of ours - our youth," said Probate Judge James Sawyer.

The leaders were honored at a special recognition banquet in Elba recently by the Coffee County Extension Service staff.

Dr. Odell Berg, who has only been a citizen of the United States for six years, and who spent 20 years as a missionary and chaplain in the Belgian Congo, was the speaker.

He spoke on what is right with America, listing its tremendous size and calling it the land of hope.

One problem in America, he believes Dr. Berg, is that adults don't spent enough time with youth.

This 4-H Club program in Coffee County where adult leaders and 4-H'ers work together is great," he said. "Our country needs more of this kind of cooperation."

Just why are these leaders so willing to give of their time and effort? B.M. Bowdoin of New Brockton, a retired Navy electrician, said, "I have some talent and I hope some talent that I'm glad to give to the youth of this area."

Mrs. Lynne Peacock was a school 4-H leader for 25 years and when she retired she was eager to continue as a volunteer leader. She spends a minimum of three hours a week and drives 48 miles in preparation and working with the fourth and fifth grade 4-H Club girls at New Hope. She said, "I like 4-H because I think it helps to develop our youth mentally, physically and spiritually. It teaches them how to work together."

Mrs. Linda Johns of Elba said, "By giving of my time and efforts in this program I hope that I'm providing our children an opportunity that otherwise they wouldn't get."

This program provides girls with an understanding of home economics early in life," said Mrs. Connie Wright of New Brockton.

The Coffee County 4-H leader program is a pilot program. In most counties, the Extension farm and home agents meet monthly with the local 4-H clubs. But in Coffee County, Dan Presley, Extension farm agent, and Sandra Coffey, Extension home agent, hold training meetings each month for the volunteer leaders. Then these leaders go to their respective clubs and give or assist 4-H'ers themselves in conducting demonstrations.

Typical demonstrations for boys are lessons on lawn mower safety, how to measure lumber, or how to buy a used car. Girls get training on how to spend their money and plan their wardrobes.

Safety And Health Seminar Set At ESJC

A one-day Occupational Safety and Health Act (OSHA) Seminar for Wiregrass Employers and Employees is scheduled at Enterprise State Junior College from 8:45 a.m. to 1 p.m. Friday, May 17, 1974.

Information on the scope and general requirements of the OSHA Act of 1970 will be covered, according to Edwin M. Johnson, administrator of the NSC has contracted with the U.S. Department of Labor to provide training for industries and businesses in Alabama and North Florida.

Johnson said that employers should be concerned about the requirements of the law since they must assure safe and healthful working conditions for their employees and fines up to $10,000 or imprisonment up to six months may result for serious violations.

"That is the reason for these seminars," Johnson said, "we will provide instructions on proper record keeping, how to comply with the law, rights and responsibilities under the law, and penalties applicable."

It is up to the employers and the employees to learn how they may be affected. This seminar is provided at no cost to provide them with the knowledge needed to avoid penalties.

To register, employers should send the names of those planning to attend to Jim Key, director, Evening Division, Enterprise State Junior College.

SAFETY AND HEALTH SEMINAR AT DOTHAN

The Dothan-Houston County Chamber of Commerce announces that the National Safety Council will conduct a 4-day Voluntary Compliance seminar on the Occupational Safety and Health Act of 1970. The seminars will be presented Monday through Thursday, May 13-16.

Small engine repair includes outboard motors, lawnmowers, yard tractors, motorcycles and chain saws and will be offered in the night program, 6 to 9:45 p.m. Monday through Thursday.

Students may enroll in the program as a half-time VA approved course, or may enroll for short terms in their own or operator area of interest. Tuition for the night program is $25 a month.

Enrollments are being accepted at any time in other on-going technical programs in auto mechanics, combination welding, aviation maintenance, and in the special course for experienced aircraft mechanics and licensed aircraft mechanics.

The next aviation (aviation electronics) class will start in September.

Applications Accepted For Repair Courses

Applications are being accepted now for new courses in appliance repair and small engine repair, which began Monday, May 6, at the Alabama Aviation and Technical College in Ozark. Advance enrollments are also being accepted for May 22 entry in the day-time refrigeration/air conditioning course and for June enrollment in the full-time day-student secretarial program.

The appliance repair course is a new full-time day occupational course, preparing students for employment as service technicians in the repair of domestic household appliances. The course is not offered at any other State school in central or southern Alabama. Classes in the day program meet from 8 a.m. to 3 p.m. Monday through Friday. Tuition is $20 a month.

Elba Residents On Trucking Board

Two Elba residents have been elected to membership on the board of directors of the Alabama Trucking Association at its recent convention.

T.K. Dorsey, Henry Dorsey Used Trailer Sales, and George Collier, president of Dorsey Trailers, will hold office. The new terms begin on July 1, said J.H. Dove of Dothan, current president of the Association who becomes chairman of the board of directors on the same date.

Dorsey is a past president of the Association, having filled the office as president in 1961 while Collier has previously served the organization on the governing body.

In the night program, 6 to 9:45 p.m. Monday through Thursday, students may enroll in the program as a half-time VA approved course, or may enroll for short terms in their own or operator area of interest. Tuition for the night program is $25 a month.

Enrollments are being accepted at any time in other on-going technical programs in auto mechanics, combination welding, aviation maintenance, and in the special course for experienced aircraft mechanics and licensed aircraft mechanics.

The next aviation (aviation electronics) class will start in September.

Mrs. Williams To Direct Baptist Workshop

Mrs. Maurice Williams of Birmingham will direct a workshop for preschool leaders of Coffee County Baptist churches on May 9.

The preschool workshop will be located at the Hillcrest Baptist Church, Enterprise, and will have two continuous sessions: 9:30 to 11:30 a.m. and 2:00 to 3:00 p.m. on May 9.

Those who work with and teach children, nursery through five years of age, who attend the workshop should come for both periods if possible. However, either session will be beneficial to leaders of preschool children in Sunday School, Church Training, Vacation Bible School, and Missions Fringes.

Mrs. Williams is a consultant in preschool and children's work with the Church Training Department of the Alabama Baptist State Convention. She has served as Kindergarten Superintendent and Teacher, Hunter Street Baptist Church, Birmingham, Alabama, and also the Director of Children's Work in the same church.

ELBA REPORT

Editorial

DRUM MAJOR, MAJORETTES, & COLOR GUARD SELECTED

Sometimes parents just don't understand their kids. It is even worse now in this day and time. The oldest is usually the problem child and gets all the blame. I was written by a young boy who never felt wanted or loved by his parents. It was printed in The Evangelist on April 21, 1974, and reads as follows:

TOO BUSY TO LISTEN

Dear Folks,
Thank you for everything, but I am going to Chicago and try and start some kind of new life.

You asked me why I did those things and why I gave you so much trouble. The answer is I was really just a kid who was never loved by his parents. I was written by a young boy who never felt wanted or loved by his parents. It was printed in The Evangelist on April 21, 1974, and reads as follows:

Remember when I was about 6 or 7 and I used to want you to just listen to me? I remember all the nice things you gave me for Christmas and my birthday. I was really happy with the things—forget about a week. But the rest of the time during the year I really didn't want presents. I just wanted all the time for you to listen to me like I was somebody who felt things too, because I remember even when I was young I felt things. But you said you were busy.

Mom, you are a wonderful cook, and you had everything so clean. You were tired so much from doing all those things that made you busy. But you know something, Mom? I would have liked crackers and peanut butter just as well if you had only sat down with me while during the day and said: "Tell me all about it so I can maybe help you understand."

And when Donna came, I couldn't understand why every one made so much fuss because I didn't think it was my fault that her hair is curly and her skin so white, and she doesn't have to wear glasses with such thick lenses. Her grades were better too, weren't they?

If Donna ever has children, I hope you will tell her to just pay some attention to the one who doesn't smile very much—because that one will really be crying inside. And when she's about to bake 6 dozen cookies, to make sure first that the kids don't want to tell her about a dream or a hope or something—because thoughts are important to small kids even though they don't have so many words to use when they tell about what they have inside them.

I think that all the kids who are doing so many things that groups are tearing out their hair worrying about are really looking for somebody who will have time to listen a few minutes and who really and truly will treat them as they would a grown-up who might be useful to them; you know—polite to them. If you kids had ever said to me "Pardon me," when you interrupted me, I'd have dropped dead.

If anybody asks you where I am, tell them I've gone looking for somebody with time because I've got a lot of things I want to talk about.

Love to all,
Your Son

Longer, More Youthful Life Is Reward of Planned Diet

By LELORD KORDREL
Number Fourteen of a Series

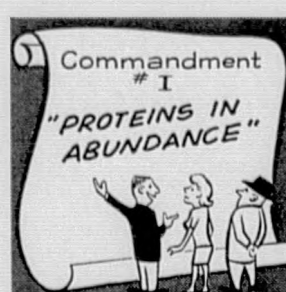

Your great desire is to live a long, useful life, all the while looking and feeling far younger than your years. Certainly this is a goal worth aiming at. But are you prepared to abide by the Commandments? Because everything worth attaining has a price. And the price of a long, youthful life is planned diet.

At first, the careful and judicious selection of youth-protecting foods will be a novelty only. But after that may come the danger period when the novelty provided by a new regimen begins to wear off, and you are tempted to lapse into the "oh, it's too much trouble" kind of defeatist thinking. Yet I promise you that once you have successfully weaned your diet of temptation to return to the old haphazard way of eating, you'll subconsciously begin accepting, or rejecting, each food on the basis of its contribution to your youthfulness and long life, with the same skill as that exercised by a trained nutritionist. Test it. You will avoid the old "goosey" meals with which you formerly insulted your body.

FOOD COMMANDMENTS
The food commandments I shall lay down are those that will afford you taste pleasures and adventures in good eating the like of which you have seldom enjoyed before. Let's take these six general rules—commandments I have called them—one by one, in detail, as they pertain to your goal of attaining a long, youthful, enjoyable life.

First commandment: is high-grade proteins in abundance. The protein story has been developed rather fully for you in the preceding chapters, so there is no need to repeat at length the fact that protein is essential for feeding, repairing and rebuilding your muscles, nerves, tissues, glands and vital organs. In case of illness or convalescence, protein is the re-builder of your health.

Life insurance companies have an unsentimental, dollars-and-cents interest in keeping you well and alive for a long time. For that reason they issue several food commands. First, we'll take blood disorders. One of the most common of these in persons past 40 is anemia. The paleness which has come to be associated with growing older is often nothing except a visible symptom of nutritional anemia. There's no reason why a person shouldn't possess a healthy, glowing complexion in later years, provided his blood is rich with red color. Matter of fact, healthy blood cannot be formed without protein. No more than it can be maintained without the minerals iron and copper. You can't build good red blood on tea and toast. Anemia at any age cannot be shrugged off as "not serious." But in middle life anemia is an ailment that can shorten your years of useful, vigorous living. If you suspect you may be anemic, go at once to your doctor or to a reliable laboratory and have a blood count taken. If a blood count reveals too few red cells and a low percentage of hemoglobin (that is, it is not red enough), then you should act at once to restore your blood to normal. How? By immediately converting to high-protein meals (those containing lean meat, liver, kidney, heart, dark meat of poultry, eggs, cheese and low-fat milk products). Eat generously of iron-rich apricots, molasses, prunes, raisins, whole grains, beef, parsley, radishes, citrus fruits and pineapple, to mention but a few foods highest in iron content.

MINERAL SUPPLEMENT
As a safety measure, your doctor will probably also prescribe a mineral supplement containing organic iron to rebuild your blood as quickly as possible.

As an added iron tonic which you can prepare for yourself at home, buy some unbleached apricots (usually found in health food stores). If apricots can't be had, the next best fruits are dried peaches or raisins.

Put a handful of the fruit in a glass, cover with lukewarm water, stir, let stand overnight. Next morning stir the mixture again, drain off the water into another glass, adding to it one tablespoon of black molasses. Prepare and drink this iron tonic several times a week (the fruit should also be eaten).

I have, of course, been speaking exclusively of simple, iron-deficiency anemia which comprises about 95 percent of all anemia cases.

Next: More of the "commandments." Why vitamins are essential elements to good health; how they back up proteins.

Dr. Paul Irby Seeks Delegate Candidacy

Dr. Paul Irby announces his candidacy for delegate to the Democratic Charter Conference or "Mini-Convention." He is a candidate from District 16, which includes Bullock, Chocoma, Coffee, Dale, Geneva, Houston and Pike counties.

The "Mini-Convention" is to be held in Montgomery, Ala. Dr. Irby has a doctorate degree in education, a masters degree in divinity and a masters of religious education degree. He is an ordained Southern Baptist minister, and was a pastor for five years. He has taught public schools for six years, and is now a university professor at Troy State University at Ft. Tucker.

Dr. Irby indicates he entered as a candidate because of the seemingly moral and ethical breakdown of our political system becoming 6 in Kansas City. The purpose of the convention is to write a permanent charter, or rules which will govern for years the National Democratic Party.

Dr. Irby proposes several objectives for the Mini-Convention. One is that the by-laws and rules, adopted, reflect and permit expression of the ideals and concerns of all Americans. Specifically, that the National Democratic Party no longer be controlled by specific people or people from a specific area of the country.

A second objective proposed by Dr. Irby is that money collected and spent by candidates for national office be done by a committee supervised or controlled by the Democratic Party. This will aid in preventing a democratic "watergate."

Dr. Irby is married to the former Wanda Strickler, and they have two children.

needs, you have a basis for deciding whether the product meets a need and whether it is better than a present product.

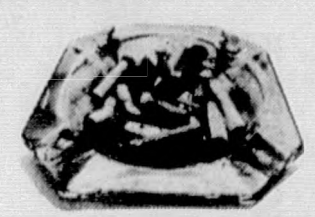

MICROWAVE OVENS
A few simple precautions will assure you of safety when using a microwave oven. Follow the manufacturer's instruction manual for recommended operating procedures. Never insert objects through the door grill or around the door seal. Never operate an empty oven. Never tamper with the oven safety interlock. Clean the inside, door and seal, with water and mild detergent frequently. Don't use scouring pads or steel wool. Have the oven serviced regularly by a qualified serviceman. Switch the oven off before opening the door. And finally, stay at least an arm's length away from the front of an oven while it is on.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS
You can avoid pot-watching by broiling meatballs, stew meat or pot roasts in the broiler or oven. It's especially time-saving when you're making large quantities. Spread meat on rack in a shallow pan and broil or bake at 450 degrees Fahrenheit; turn and brown on the other side. Eggs keep best covered in the refrigerator. If your egg tray isn't covered, it's wise to keep eggs in the containers they were bought in.

DO YOU DIAL D-O-P-E FOR HELP

Why did it happen? He had anything a teenage boy could want. But then why does any kid get hooked on dope? Does it provide a blanket of security or maybe add on to his physical strength or maturity?

ANSWER—Dope does nothing for a person, except destroys him and shows him a dark path to nowhere.

Billy's parents had never failed to provide him with plenty of money, fine clothes, a nice home, and a good car. Yet, while providing him with all these material possessions, they overlooked the one thing he needed most. Billy needed them to be proud of him for his good deeds and to discipline him for his bad ones. He longed for them to tell him once in a while how much they loved him. Sure they loved him, but money couldn't talk; only their lips could express their love in a way which Billy needed to hear.

As a young child, Billy was dominated by his older sister and was never given the attention received by his younger sister. Therefore, at an early age, he began striving for attention by doing things he knew were wrong. He would break his sister's toys, start fights with children younger than he, and make cursing a part of his everyday vocabulary. As he grew older he still felt that if no one would notice his good acts, he would make them notice him through wrongdoing.

By the time Billy had reached the age of fifteen, he had begun to smoke and drink, and even accomplished to get arrested for disturbing the peace. His parents found it amusing that he smoke and drank. The fact that he had been arrested at the age of fifteen was hilariously funny to them. But Billy did not need their laughter—he needed their discipline and compassion. Yet, they had no time for him since they both worked five days a week. Then on Saturdays, his mother had to take her daughters shopping, while his father had to go to the liquor store and get supplies for their weekly Saturday night parties. After all, their friends and ple-sure were more important than Billy's needs. Well, what else would he need after he was given twenty-five dollars on Saturday afternoon and told to be home by three o'clock the next morning? Not many kids were lucky enough to have parents who cared so much about their child's well-being.

Billy soon grew tired of partying with his friends and a bottle of whiskey. He needed something more exciting to occupy his time. What was left that would gain something from his parents except laughter? The answer came to him in one short word—drugs.

Although Billy lived in a small southern town, drugs had made a big scene there. Marijuana quickly found a place with him but only for a short time, as he developed a need for something stronger. His emotional need for compassion had been replaced by a physical need for tripping out on hard drugs.

As Billy's needs for stronger drugs increased, he began experimenting with heroin to fulfill his needs. The heroin addiction called for more money than his allowance could cover. As again his problem was solved when he joined a gang of punk hoods. Since Billy was still a child and uneducated in the art of burglary, he was assigned only minor duties to perform. These included climbing through windows to open locked doors for the others, shoplifting from the local stores and then selling the articles, and even pocketing from his family and friends. Being a young and inexperienced thief, he was very careless in his performance, leaving finger prints and clues behind everywhere. This carelessness later led to the saving of Billy's life.

As the months rolled by and the speed rolled in, Billy developed an outrageous addiction for the "stuff." Needle marks could be found on nearly every vein point on his body. The bend of his arm was completely blackened with the scar of the needle. The pupils of his eyes were constantly dilated and his speech was very incoherent. He began failing in school, lost all interest in sports, and became very rebellious toward those persons whom he once cared so much for. At times, his grandmother, who meant more to him than anyone, was completely unrecognizable to him. He became a victim of obscenities as his sexual lusts grew. This lust led him to attempt to rape one of his younger sister's friends; he also contacted a venereal disease from a local prostitute. But he didn't care and he no longer needed anything from his family except money to buy his "goodies."

Billy's body and mind were rapidly deteriorating and he was too young to realize how horrible his situation was. Finally an incident occurred which probably saved Billy from completely destroying himself. He was arrested one night for inciting a fight at a local hangout. Then he was taken to the police headquarters, booked, fingerprinted, and escorted to a cell where he spent the rest of the night.

During the night one of the policemen managed to catch a painting of a man with a crown of thorns resting on his head. At that moment he realized there was only one love and one friend he truly needed and needed to be. He was on his knees, crying in the chapel for the help of Jesus Christ.

A year has passed since Billy cried for Jesus in the chapel. Since then many events have taken place to change the course of his life. The little girl wasn't seriously injured in the accident and her parents never pressed charges. But at last and most important was Billy's parents finding the word "love" inside them and not inside a piece of green paper. They began to find time for Randy and his problems and they also learned to praise his good deeds and not his wrongdoings.

Children Must Have Shots Before School

A minimum of four months is required to complete the basic series of immunizations now required for children entering school in the fall. "To meet requirements of a new Alabama law, parents must begin immediately to bring their children's immunizations up-to-date," reminds Dr. Frederick S. Wolf of the Alabama Department of Public Health.

Children entering kindergarten or the first grade anywhere in Alabama next fall must show proof that they have been fully immunized against six diseases: diphtheria, pertussis (whooping cough), tetanus, polio, measles, and rubella. Most Alabama children begin the basic series of recommended immunizations, but an alarming number do not complete it, notes Dr. Wolf, who is director of the Bureau of Preventable Diseases. Even if the basic series was completed during infancy, a child will periodically need boosters to be adequately protected against some diseases.

By the age of six months, a child should have completed his basic series of immunizations. DPT and polio boosters are recommended at 18 months and before entering school.

The philosophy of compulsory immunizations centers on the communicable nature of the diseases and the close personal contact among students. Diseases introduced into a school population can spread rapidly if the children are not immunized.

Use of vaccines has reduced the incidence of certain communicable diseases to such an extent that many parents have become apathetic, observes Dr. Wolf. "The disease-causing organisms are still present, however, and any unimmunized person definitely runs a risk."

School officials will not be allowed to admit a child who does not present a certificate of immunization or a certificate of exemption. The necessary certificates and the immunizations may be obtained from private physicians, county health departments, or military clinics (for children who are military dependents).

NUMBER 41

RESULTS OF TUESDAY'S ELECTION
BRING FEW SURPRISES IN COFFEE

The Democratic primary results dribbled in slower than usual in Alabama Tuesday night. This was mostly blamed on the confusion caused by the new chip-up of Senatorial and Representative districts.

As expected, Governor Wallace won his bid for re-election. Coffee County voters continued their support of Wallace by giving him a big majority. Coffee County voters also followed the statewide total by voting heavy for Charles Woods and Jerry Beasley for Lt. Governor.

There will be a run-off in this race between these two. Possibly Betty Frink was State Auditor, but Martha K. Adams may have enough votes to force a run-off. Coffee County was won by Mrs. Frink.

Mrs. Agnes Baggett won the office of Secretary of State and Melba Till Allen won easily as State Treasurer. Local voters supported these two also.

McMillan Lane was high man locally and statewide in the Commissioner of Agriculture race with A.W. Todd second and in possible run-off position.

C. C. Jack Owen will be forced into a run-off for Public Service Commission by either Jim Zeigler or Tom Walker. Zeigler was Number 2 in race and most likely statewide.

Jane Shores soundly defeated Riley Green for Supreme Court, but in this race, Coffee County strongly supported Green.

EASTERS - HOLLEY

Douglas Easters was forced into a run-off in his bid for re-election by Jimmy Holley. Easters received a heavy vote in Enterprise, outpolling Holley 2-1 while Holley was high man in Elba and in many of the rural boxes. The final vote in that race was Easters - 3764, Holley - 3625, Skinner - 325. The box in Covington County was won by Holley, and he is included in these figures.

GRANTHAM LEADS

The Sheriff's race will see incumbent Ralph Sparks in a run-off with former deputy Neil Grantham. The vote on these two was real close with Grantham leading by 9 votes. Grantham received 3106 and Sparks 3097. Charlie Webb received 1971, Wade Cooper 842, Bill Walden 396, and H.F. Cardwell 202.

MELWAIN IS CORONER

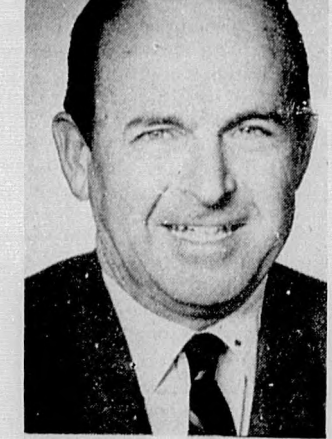

Marvin Melwain outpolling C. A. Hammond for Coroner, Elba Division. There was some confusion in this race, and until Monday only Elba was voting in that race. A check with District Attorney Lewy Stephens revealed the error and more ballots were printed and county officials worked until after midnight distributing these.

John H. Lester won in his race for member of the State Democratic Executive Committee, and Mrs. S. A. Cherry was named Delegate to the 1974 Democratic Charter Conference.

Next week the Elba Clipper will publish a beat-by-beat tabulation of Tuesday's election results.

Beasley In Elba
Monday Seeking Votes

Beasley promised Monday that if elected he would do everything in his power to work with city and county officials to accomplish a number of improvements in this area.

AFTER HEATED DEBATES

City Council Approves
$2100 For Football Field

The Elba City Council voted Monday night to donate $2100 to the Elba City School Board for capital improvements to the local football stadium. This was the anti-climax to the match of supplementing the coaches' pay which has been a sore spot with the group for two years.

The council has voted the coaches' supplement down several times, dating back to Jack Brumson's tenure as mayor when he offered several councilmen by casting a vote when the council had voted a 3-2 vote in favor of the matter.

This vote tied the vote 3-3 and he then cast his second vote to break the tie killing the motion.

This happened again Monday night when Ronnie Vaughan made a motion "to appropriate $2100 to the City School Board for hiring coaches for summer jobs. This was to include Coach Bass, Jones, Bessinger, Daughtry and Crowe. The motion was seconded by Charles Ellis.

Vaughan, Ellis and Councilman Sam Sawyer voted yes. Councilman Ben Carpenter and Virgil Coleman voted no. Mayor Owen Ziglar voted no to tie the vote and cast his tie-breaking vote against the motion to kill the matter.

A prepared statement explaining his reason for voting no on the matter.

Harsh words

This action brought out some harsh words from several of the councilmen and at this point Vaughan left the room. Councilman Ellis asked for a short recess, and also left as did Ziglar. All returned in a few minutes and the motion proceeded on other matters.

About 11 p.m. Mayor Ziglar again brought the matter up and said he wasn't opposed to giving any money to the schools for capital improvements. At this point Carpenter exploded and left the room. Councilman Ellis made a motion to appropriate $2100 to the school board for capital improvement of the football field as a one-time appropriation from revenue sharing. Vaughan seconded the motion.

The council also approved an increase to the local library from $100 - $130 monthly. Lamar Faulk of Polk County, Georgia of Dothan appeared before the council and explained new requirements for sewer planning and environmental planning. No action was taken on this matter.

Man Arrested
For Damage
To Autos

Tuesday night David Caldwell went to an address on Jones Street in Mulberry Heights and damaged two automobiles with a 2 x 4 board. One car belonged to his estranged wife. No motive was given for the attack. Damage to the 1969 Pontiac were $664.06, and to the 1964 Plymouth $222.51.

Elba Policeman Gary Armstrong investigated and arrested Caldwell on a charge of Disorderly Conduct. He was still lodged in the Coffee County Jail at press time Wednesday.

It is impossible to report the confusion that followed. At one time it was believed that the vote had been tied and untied by the mayor. At another it appeared that Councilman Coleman was changing his vote to no, making it 4-1 without the mayor. At another it appeared he was withdrawing his second to the amendment. At another it appeared he was withdrawing his second to the amendment. At another it appeared he was withdrawing his second to the amendment.

Now the council wanted to see which direction Mayor Ziglar would vote. After a long delay and a plea by Ziglar that the entire matter be withdrawn, Ziglar declined to vote on the amendment, allowing it to die.

Coleman then asked that the main motion include a request for the check to be earmarked for capital improvement. Ellis agreed, saying that is what was intended.

Somewhere near this point, Ellis addressed himself to Carpenter and after noting "we have gone along with Carpenter's suggestions in the past, but what we are going to do in the future is take the same attitude." Apparently he was referring to the recreation program because the discussion seemed to always get back to various parts of the recreation program.

Finally the group got down to a vote on giving the $2100 to the school and again the vote was 3-2 with Ellis, Vaughan and Sawyer voting yes and Carpenter and Coleman voting no. Again the long pause waiting to see what the mayor would do. This time after a few minutes Ziglar took the same action as he had taken on the defeated amendment - he declined to vote and the motion passed giving $2100 to the school for improving the football field.

There were some more harsh words between councilmen and Vaughan stated "I am going to be looking around for another recreation director because I am going to put it on the table right here."

Girl Scouts Complete Successful Paper Drive

Seventeen thousand pounds of paper left Elba on Tuesday, April 23rd, bound for Mobile and only one small piece of paper was returned. This, however, was a check for $360.00 made out to Senior Girl Scout Troop #300, and its arrival was the cause of much jubilation among the twelve girls who had collected, tied and handled the eight and one-half tons of paper.

The load of paper contained newspapers and magazines which sold for $1.50 per hundred pounds, colored I.B.M. cards which sold for the same price and white I.B.M. cards which brought $6.00 per hundred pounds. The I.B.M. cards had to be sorted and separated before they would be accepted.

The newspaper could have been sold in Montgomery or Dothan, but the troop discussed the fact that the Mobile firms paid much more for the I.B.M. cards, therefore decided to send the load there. Further investigation found a company that would have their workers unload the van, a courtesy extended only to Troop #300 "because they are girls." (Usually the seller must do his own unloading.)
